

Top Castro Aide
Incurs Disfavor

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Monday night accused one of Cuba's top Communists, Amilcar Escalante, of falling into grave errors as secretary of the Popular Socialist party.

Only this month Escalante was named to the 25-member directorate of the powerful integrated Revolutionary Organizations (ORD). He was considered Cuba's leading Communist theoretician.

"He has followed a policy placing him apart from the Marxist-Leninist norms," Castro thundered in a televised address monitored here.

"He has created an apparatus to pursue personal ends. He has tried to convert himself into the ORI and has given personal instructions for personal benefit as if they were those of the ORI."

Frost Honored
On 88th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poet Robert Frost got a medal on his 88th birthday Monday and tossed nosegays in all directions — to President Kennedy, to former President Eisenhower and even to Premier Khrushchev.

Frost, his wit sparkling like spring sunshine in his New England hills, had this to say of Kennedy: "A nice Irish weakness for poetry."

A man with sense enough to set up an office of fine arts in the White House and leave deplorable words like "aesthetic" and "cultural" out of the agency's title.

Eisenhower: "A fine old dignity, a fine old general." There's been some cheap criticism of him but "what are they talking about? He's a friend of mine, an admiration of mine."

Says Eichmann
Was Obsessed

JERUSALEM (AP)—Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner used Adolf Eichmann's own words Monday in an effort to persuade Israel's highest court to uphold his death sentence.

The prosecutor concentrated on Eichmann's testimony at his four-month trial last year in a detailed review of the case against the condemned former Gestapo colonel. Citing captured Nazi orders for the deportation of Jews to extermination camps, Hausner told the Supreme Court: "The accused always told me he carried out these orders to the hilt. He admitted he was obsessed with his mission and he expressed his satisfaction that, though Hitler lost the war, Eichmann had won his campaign to erase the biological foundation of European Jewry."

Refuse Request
For 100-Ft. Rigs

HARRISBURG (AP)—A request to permit 100-foot-long tractor-trailer rigs on the Pennsylvania Turnpike has been turned down for safety reasons, it was disclosed Monday.

Franklin V. Summers, operations director, said the Turnpike Commission turned down the request on the recommendations of engineers.

"Such equipment just would not be safe on a road designed 20 years ago with its many curves, grades, tunnels and old interchanges," Summers said. He said notification of the commission's decision was mailed out Friday to the National Association of Auto Transporters.

Senate Vote
Hits Poll Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 62 to 15 late Monday to take a first step toward a constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax.

The vote, which followed 10 days of argument by Southern opponents of the move, was on a motion to take up an unrelated bill to establish an Alexander Hamilton memorial in New York City.

Once the motion carried, Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., moved to substitute his proposed antipoll tax amendment for the Alexander Hamilton bill.

The Senate, the House and three-fourths of the states must approve the bill if the Constitution is to be amended to ban the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

Stamp Forgers
Enter Pleas

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three New Yorkers accused of trying to sell a million counterfeit four-cent postage stamps Monday entered pleas in U.S. District Court.

Joseph A. Costello, 28, of New York City pleaded guilty to one count and innocent to another. Peter J. Troiano, 25, of Brooklyn, pleaded innocent to two counts, while Vincent Noce, 50, of Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to one count.

Sentencing on the guilty pleas was deferred by Judge Joseph S. Lord III pending outcome of the trials on the innocent counts. No trial date was set.

Paret Still Near Death As Investigation Is Launched

NEW YORK (AP)—State investigators Monday night rushed a report to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the championship prize fight that left welterweight Benny (Kid) Paret near death. Doctors said all has been done that can be done for the Cuban-born boxer for the time being.

The New York State Athletic Commission, which polices professional boxing in the state, called witnesses, viewed films of the Saturday night fight, then turned in a report.

No Immediate Comment

The governor's office indicated there would be no immediate comment on the findings. Rockefeller earlier said the violent beating of Paret in full view of millions on television left him deeply concerned and disturbed.

The 25-year-old Paret, who lost his world welterweight title to challenger Emile Griffith in a fight at Madison Square Garden, has been in a deep coma since he was carried from the ring on a stretcher. It was Paret's second knockout in two fights in less than four months.

Rumors Fly

Intermittent rumors of Paret's death swept the city during the day. However, he remained alive, although his condition was described as critical and the outlook as extremely grave.

Paret underwent an operation Sunday to remove pressure from his brain. This was followed today by a tracheotomy, an incision into the windpipe, to assist his breathing.

"No further operation at this time is contemplated," said a medical bulletin from Dr. John S. Crisp, a chief surgical resident at Roosevelt Hospital.

No champion ever has been fatally injured in an American prize ring. The last death during a title fight was in Cleveland in 1947, when challenger Jimmy Doyle was fatally knocked out by champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

Previous Fight

There was speculation that a prior fight with middleweight champion Gene Fullmer last Dec. 9 had weakened Paret and made him an easy target for Griffith's battering attack in the 12th round of Saturday's fight. Referee Ruby Goldstein finally stopped the fight and awarded Griffith the title on a technical knockout.

Fullmer knocked out Paret in 10 rounds when they met and Paret had not fought since then.

Said Gus Lesnevich, former light heavyweight champion and now a referee, who watched the fight Saturday from ringside: "Personally, I don't think Paret had enough rest since the Fullmer fight. He looked very sluggish during the entire fight."

From his home in West Jordan, Utah, Fullmer agreed.

Fought Too Soon

"I never hit a guy so many times before he went out," he said. "It was not a fight to be followed by another tough one right off. He got a bad beating in the fight with me."

Goldstein's timing in bringing the fight to a close as Griffith hammered punches into Paret, while the champion staggered on the ropes, also drew attention.

Goldstein, one of the best-known referees in the nation, said he stopped the fight as soon as he realized Paret was not rolling away from the punches and was in danger.

Lesnevich and another ringsider, former heavyweight champ Jersey Joe Walcott, both defended Goldstein. They said it was customary in a title fight for a referee to limit his interference of the men in the ring.

High Court
Ruling Favors
Urban Voters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urban voters won a momentous, first-round victory Monday in their long fight against rural domination of state legislatures.

By a 6-2 vote, the Supreme Court ruled lower federal courts may determine whether city voters are unconstitutionally discriminated against in the apportionment of legislative seats.

Speaking for the majority in deciding a case from Tennessee, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said, "We have no cause at this stage to doubt the District Court will be able to fashion relief if violations of constitutional rights are found."

No Instructions

The decision did not instruct the lower court how to proceed but lawyers speculated that the District Court could work out a redistricting in line with requirements of the state constitution. If the Tennessee legislature refused to adopt it, the court then might order an at-large election in which all legislative candidates would have to be voted on statewide, instead of by districts.

Charles S. Rhyne, an attorney for the urban voters, told a reporter the decision will have its effect in every state of the union and "could pretty well shift control of state legislatures to urban areas."

Back To Local Court

Brennan said it would be improper for the high court to consider now what remedy would be most appropriate if the city voters prove their case at the trial.

The case now goes back to a special three-judge District Court in Nashville. In December 1959 that court dismissed the case on the ground it had no jurisdiction.

But the three-judge court commented that Tennessee was "guilty of a clear violation of its own constitution, and the rights of the plaintiffs (city voters)." It agreed also with these voters that "the civil is a serious one which should be corrected without further delay."

Begin In Tennessee

The litigation was originated by a group of voters living in larger Tennessee cities. They were supported by the Department of Justice and several Tennessee cities, including Nashville, Chattanooga, Knoxville and Memphis.

The city voters' basic contention is that the present apportionment of legislative seats violates the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment.

Kennedy Asks $600-Million
'Pump-Priming' Works Plan

Would Serve As A Stopgap
To Unemployment Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed Monday an immediate start on a $600-million public works program to pump job-making projects into nearly 1,000 American communities still suffering from heavy unemployment.

Kennedy asked the House and Senate Public Works committees to okay the new plan as part of a $2-billion standby capital improvements program he had asked earlier to ease the impact of future recessions.

The President said despite strong recovery from the latest recession the economy still has "considerable distance to go before full employment is restored" in many communities.

Predicts Expansion

Predicting continued economic expansion this year and next for the nation as a whole, Kennedy said this would in time help restore prosperity to many of the hard-hit areas.

"But their needs are urgent now," the President said, "and further help should not be delayed until another recession threatens the whole economy."

Cities and areas eligible for the stepped-up program would be those already designated as depressed or labor surplus areas.

Kennedy, in effect, called for an immediate pump priming to help along the recovery already under way — while also enacting the standby program to minimize any new downturn that may develop.

Proposal Backed

Kennedy's proposals were backed in testimony before the House committee by Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors; Budget Director David E. Bell, and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg said no leaf-raking, make-work projects were contemplated but necessary public buildings, roads, parks, airfields, hospitals, sewage and water-supply projects. Most of these, he added, already have been authorized by Congress for future completion.

Projects would be limited to those that could significantly alleviate unemployment, meet an essential public need, and could be finished in a 12-month period. Grants to states and localities would range to 50 per cent of project cost and could be higher. Loans would be available to assist communities unable to meet matching costs.

Matching Funds

Heller said the $2-billion standby program would be amplified by matching state funds and private expenditures for materials, equipment, and so on, to an estimated $5.5-billion total expenditure — when the program was triggered into effect.

Heller estimated this would create 500,000 jobs for a full year to soften materially the blow of a new recession.

Bell conceded, in answer to questions, that the cost of the immediate public works plan would just about wipe out the budget surplus Kennedy has estimated for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Estimated Figures

Bell said that if Congress promptly enacted this program, as Kennedy asked, some $25 million would be spent up to July 1, about $350 million during the next 12 months, and the remaining $225 million after July 1, 1963.

He said the $350 million that would be spent in the year beginning July 1 would reduce to around $100 million the surplus Kennedy had predicted.

Kennedy said there are nearly 1,000 areas in the United States experiencing heavy and persistent unemployment. He said the areas, taken together, account for 38 per cent of the nation's labor force in which one out of 13 is unemployed.

Final Rusk-Gromyko Talk
Fails To Resolve Stalemate

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko ended their Geneva talks on the Berlin dispute Monday night without resolving any East-West differences. They agreed, however, to continue discussing the problem by other means.

Rusk will fly to Washington Tuesday to report to President Kennedy.

Rusk is expected to tell the President that while no Berlin agreement was reached, the United States took the opportunity to define its position on Berlin in the clearest possible terms.

American sources said the fact that the Russians are interested in continuing to talk about Berlin indicated that the Kremlin is not anxious to force an early showdown. This appeared to be one positive accomplishment of the Geneva dialogue.

In their final session Rusk and Gromyko met for three hours and 45 minutes in the secluded Soviet villa on the outskirts of Geneva. Their exchanges during the meeting—the longest of the series—were described by Western informants as diplomatic and businesslike.

Rusk and Gromyko will meet briefly Tuesday at a plenary session of the 17-nation disarmament conference, but the talk there is not expected to take up any substantial part of the Berlin problem. Rusk intends to speak to the conference on disarmament issues.

No Change In Position

American sources said the Rusk-Gromyko meeting failed to produce any change of position on either side.

Rusk was understood to have emphasized to Gromyko, as he had done in the earlier discussions, that the Western powers have no intention of yielding any of their basic rights to be in West Berlin and have unhindered access to the city.

They were understood to have combed over every detail of the Berlin problem. Then, when this longest private talk of the current series was concluded, the two men shook hands and smiled as they took leave of each other in the glare of photographers' lights.

Rusk said there had been no change in basic positions. But Rusk obviously thought the exchange was useful in defining the conflicting Soviet and American attitudes. He told newsmen:

Common Interest

"We discussed matters of common interest including Berlin and some other questions. We had a good long talk."

Both men left open the possibility that they would have yet another private talk.

But the atmosphere was one of deadlock. The only known new proposal before them was a Communist suggestion for a vague international watch on the land, air and water corridors linking West Berlin with West Germany 110 miles away. This proposal, at least in the form it was presented, is totally unacceptable to the West.

The Soviet plan would, by its nature, mean withdrawal of American, British and French Garrisons from Berlin. It would mean giving control of all Berlin's access routes to East Germany, with the international body just sort of an advisor. And it would nudge the Western nations toward recognition of East Germany.

Meets McClintock

Also present at the cabinet ceremony was Brig. Gen. Jorge Roja, secretary of the air force, who has been noncommittal about the truce. He met Sunday night with U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock, who is anxious that constitutional government continue so Argentina can join in President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress aid program.

Whether a new cabinet will satisfy the military remained the major question.

Military chiefs led the 1955 overthrow of the Peron regime and the top generals and admirals are incensed with Frondizi for permitting Peronists to participate in new elections. The military leaders want all Castroite, Communist and Peronist elements to be denied positions of influence.

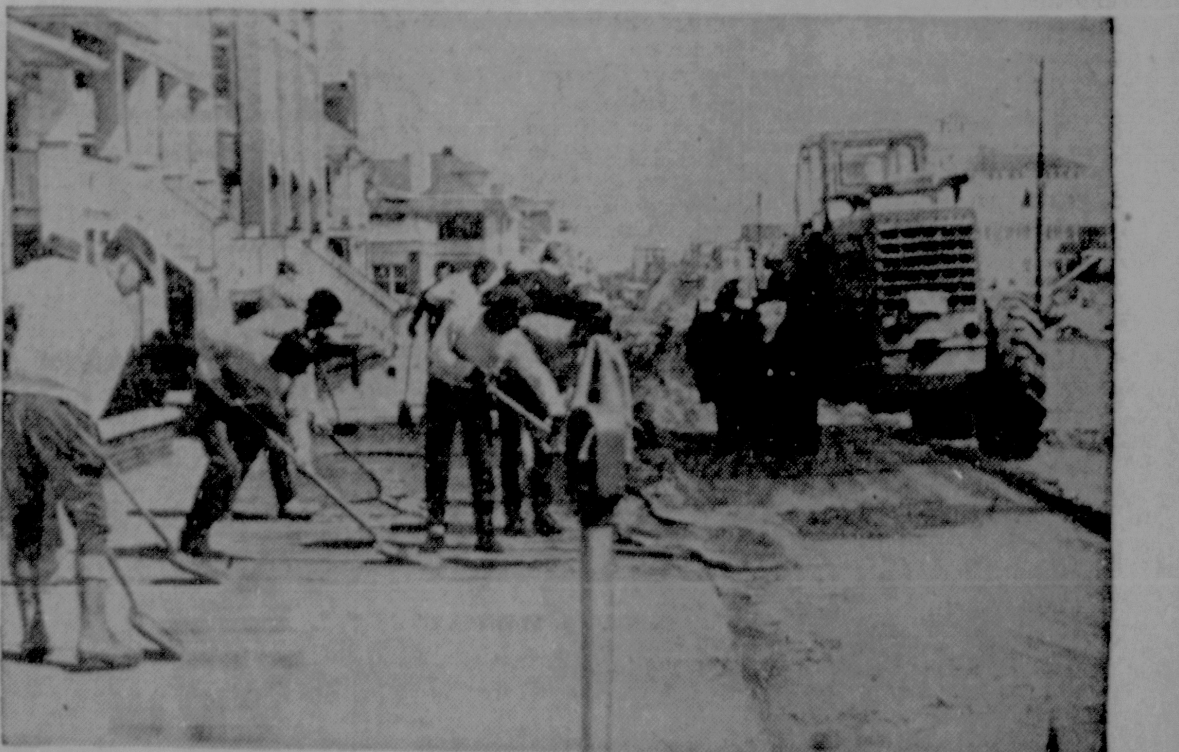

It was the victory of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron's followers in provincial elections March 18 that brought on the crisis. The military assailed Frondizi's regime for permitting the Peronists to resume political activity.

Frondizi's so-called coalition Cabinet of eight members is made up of four independents, three of his own Intransigent Radical party and one from the opposition Christian Democrats.

Other parties refused to enter the Cabinet. They were angered because Frondizi had voided the results of Peronist election victories in five provinces to appease the military.

Lenten Meditation

By Rev. Francis G. Barrett
St. Matthew's Parish
East Stroudsburg, Pa.

"God is Love, and he who abides in Love abides in God and God in him" — 1 John 4:16.

God made me to love, I am put here not for what I can get out of life, but for what I put into it and make it a little bit happier and brighter for all. Like the turning on of one light after another in a great metropolis after dark, the total effect of millions of small lights spells the difference between radiant brightness and inky darkness.

It is not possible for everyone to have a great intellect, but it is possible to have a great heart. If we find it hard to love others, may it not be because we love ourselves too much?

Love delights in giving attention rather than in attracting it. "The Son of Man has not come to be served but to serve and to give His life as a ransom for many" (Matt. 28:20).

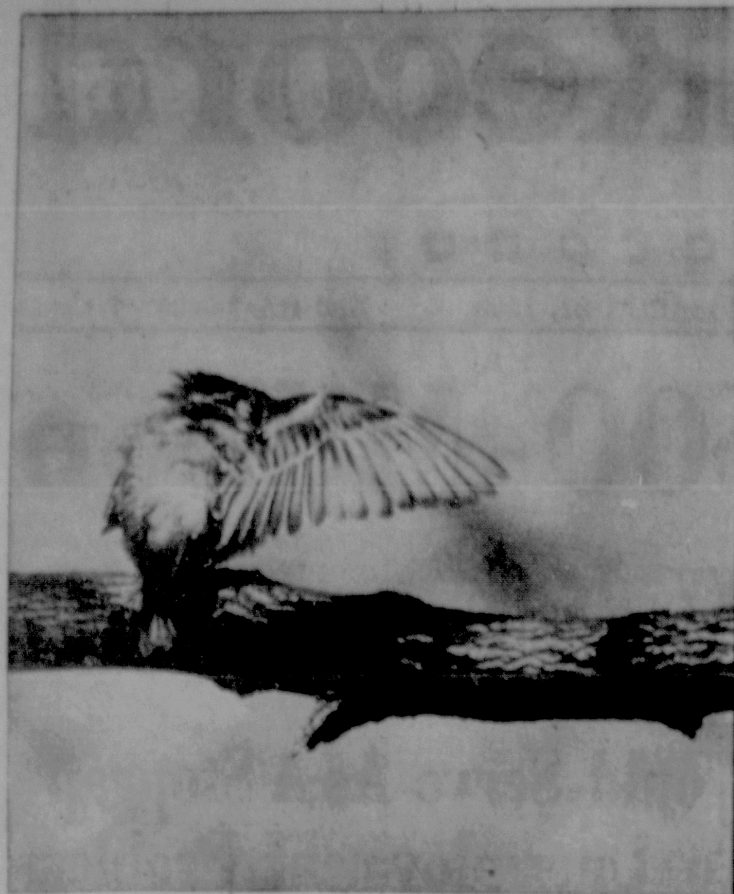

Love finds the element of good and builds on it. It does not magnify defects. Love is a flame that warms but never burns. Love sees the other person's point of view even when he cannot embrace it.

Love knows how to disagree without becoming disagreeable. Love rejoices at the success of others instead of being envious.

Love puts up with people's whims and peculiarities without being self-righteous about it. "Bear the burden of one another's failings; then you will be fulfilling the law of Christ" (Gal. 6:2).

Love goes out of its way to do something for those in trouble, regardless of their race, social or religious background. Love is being pleasant when it would be so easy to be a grouch.

Love is listening attentively to people who are in trouble, even if you are worse off yourself. Love is trying to bring out the good in those who are usually written off as failures. Love is "doing" instead of merely "finding fault."

Cap 3rd, 4th Graders Study Communications

DELAWARE WATER GAP — A program on communications was presented by third and fourth grade pupils of the Delaware Water Gap School Friday under direction of their teacher, Mrs. Alys Morton.

Bruce Posten was announcer and Dinah Widdoss presented a report on the pupils' trip to the local postoffice. A trip to Radio Station WVPO was given by Martin Counterman and Cynthia Carlton told of their visit to The Daily Record.

Diane Dennis, Michael Nase James Anthony, Kathleen Beach-told and Bruce Posten read original humorous stories, followed by an original play, "History of the Postal Service," in which Diane Dennis, James Anthony, Michael Nase, Ricky Snow, Earl Williams, Martin Counterman, Judy Drake, Dagmar Matos, Cynthia Carlton, Kathy Baechtold, Eddie Funk, Sandra Jennings, Clayton Bush, Susie Smith, Dinah Widdoss, Peggy Smith, Bruce Posten and Earl Werkheiser took part.

The children served punch and cookies to the visiting parents at the conclusion of the program.

Scouters Join At Breakfast

ONE hundred scouts representing 20 packs, troops and explorer posts sponsored by the 10 Catholic parishes of the Delaware Valley Area Council received Holy Communion at the 8 a.m. mass in St. James' de Chantal Church, Easton, Sunday. Following the service breakfast was served by the ladies auxiliaries in the school hall. Gerald Tone, breakfast chairman, introduced C. Oakley McFadden, who served as toastmaster in place of Easton Mayor George S. Smith, due to the death of Mayor Smith's mother, gave welcome remarks.

Father James Farrell gave the invocation and greetings from the host parish. He spoke briefly on "Sincerity of Purpose for Scouters". Allegiance to the Flag was led by Explorer Scout John Keck of Post 24, Easton.

Elmer Morgan, Scout Executive, representing the Delaware Valley Area Council, spoke emphasizing the need to increase the committee so as to share the work among the scouts.

Rev. Fr. John Elias, Catholic Scout Chaplain for Northampton County, was the main speaker. He emphasized the respect for religion as an essential part of the scout program. As Cardinal Moon-eysaid, "The strongest features of the organization is that it takes into account the religious background of the boy and encourages him to cultivate his religious inheritance. I quote the words of Pope John XXIII he said, "Scouting encourages in them fidelity in their duty to God and Country and to their fellow men."

Other guests introduced were Thomas Allison, Easton secretary, Victor Viti, Treasurer Nazareth, Michael Fisher, past chairman, Bangor, William Vincent, Field Executive, Stroudsburg and Alego Bartolacci, past chairman. A business meeting followed with Peter B.J. Mueller, Sr., chairman in charge.

No Injuries As Truck Overtakes

NO one was injured when a tractor-trailer loaded with coal silt overturned at the West Main St. entrance to the Stroudsburg Thruway at 9 a.m. yesterday.

Police Chief John B. Tretheway of Stroudsburg identified the driver as Gerald J. Melkosky, 27, West Hazleton. The truck's destination was Kingston, N. Y.

State Highways Dept. crews removed the silt from the highway.

Seeks Extended Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has asked the Agriculture Department to extend its pilot food stamp plan to more Pennsylvania counties.

He informed Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman in a letter that the plan has been well received in Fayette County, one of eight counties in the nation where it has been tried since last June.

Under the stamp plan, stamps which can be used to purchase food at local grocery stores are sold at a discount or given to needy persons to supplement an inadequate diet.

Clark told Freeman 52 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties are classified as depressed areas, with thousands unemployed for extended periods.

Subject Increase

LONDON (AP)—It will cost more to become a British subject after April 1. Home Secretary R. A. Butler said certificates of naturalization will be increased from 20 pounds — $36 — to 25 pounds—$70.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cash position of the treasury March 21: Balance $7,237,350, 113.34. Deposits $87,845,245,072.47. Withdrawals $76,128,458,120.94. Total debt (X) $296,664,586,092.37. Gold assets $16,709,540,745.38. (X) — Includes $435,900,855.15 debt not subject to statutory limit.

KEEP PENNSYLVANIA "THE SAFE DRIVER STATE"

By Concentrating on Your Driving

Modern conveniences and engineering advances have helped take the work out of driving, but it is, nonetheless, a full time job which demands every moment of the driver's attention. Even a momentary lapse can lead to an accident!

Never let anything distract you from the job of driving. It's also a good idea to check your rear-view mirror, the road ahead, the right and left, and your side-view mirror every few moments to make sure you'll see any possible danger.

If every motorist had observed this safety rule during 1961, 121,514 accidents and 672 fatalities might have been prevented!

Dogs Turn Savage Hunters

LONDON (AP) — Dogs on Tristan de Cunha turned savage hunters after their owners left the volcano-wrecked island in the South Atlantic last fall, the Royal Society reported Monday.

Its expedition to the island said it was forced to shoot the dogs because they destroyed all but 15 of 700 sheep left behind. The dogs also killed calves in the cattle herd. Cats and chickens left on the island were reported doing well as volcanic activity receded. The islands 260 inhabitants have been resettled in Britain.

Two Students Die In Crash

KANE, Pa. (AP)—Two college students were killed and a high school student was seriously injured yesterday in a sports car that ran off a highway near Kane and struck a tree.

The driver, Penn State sophomore John Peterson, 19, was dead on arrival at Kane Community Hospital. William Leone, 19, a sophomore at Clarion State College, was killed instantly.

Kenneth Fulmer, 17, of Kane, was taken to the hospital with multiple injuries.

All three boys were from Kane. The auto skidded on an icy patch on Route 6 about nine miles east of Kane, police said.

Phone Firm Is Pointing To Pocono Lake Cut-Over

EXTENSIVE construction in Commonwealth Telephone Company's Pocono Lake exchange is underway and will gain momentum in the succeeding months.

All the work is directed to the cut-over of completely new and enlarged dial switching equipment on July 1, A. W. Ryder, district manager, disclosed yesterday.

"The new equipment," Ryder said, "will more than double the capacity of the present exchange facilities."

New cable construction "along Rt. 940 to Blakeview and left along Rt. 115 toward Effort is now complete. This cable is being erected at a cost of $65,000.

New cable facilities leading from the exchange at Pocono Lake will be run north and south this spring at a cost of over $50,000 for improved toll and local service tying in with the exchange's new dial equipment. At the present time, poles are being placed and guys and spans set for this construction.

Ryder noted that the new dial switching equipment will arrive next month and its installation will begin immediately. Doubling the capacity of the present equipment, the new installation, incorporating the latest improvements in automatic telephony, will cost in excess of $36,000.

At the cut-over July 1, the exchange's new facilities will allow for a major upgrading of service and ample facilities for new service.

Effective with the July date, Pocono Lake telephone numbers will take on a new look. They will be all numbers. All Numerical Calling, as it is termed, supplants the two letter prefix of the exchange name plus the five digit system. Pocono Lake numbers will begin with the numbers 646-2xxx excepting pay station telephones which will be headed 646-9xxx.

With ANC, the Pocono Lake exchange will be a part of the nationwide toll dial network. All Numerical Calling allows faster, easier and more accurate dialing. Manager Ryder concluded.

Execution Stay Will Be Sought

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Third Circuit Court of Appeals will be asked next Monday to grant a further stay of execution to convicted slayer John Butler of Girardville.

Mrs. Marjorie Matson, Butler's attorney Monday said she will seek the stay while she prepares an appeal to the court from a U.S. District Court ruling.

Judge Herbert Sorg denied Butler's petition for a writ of habeas corpus last week. Sorg also directed that the stay of execution be granted Butler be vacated as of next Monday.

Mrs. Matson said she has about 40 days in which to file her appeal with the Third Circuit Court. Butler, 53, was convicted of the pistol slaying of Sheriff James Lauer of Northumberland County in 1959. Prior to Judge Sorg's stay of execution, he had been scheduled to die in the electric chair the week of March 5.

Bombs Damage Turkish Tomb

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Bomb explosions damaged two mosques — used by Cypriots of Turkish descent — in the Greek quarter of Nicosia on this Greek Independence Day. A Turkish news bulletin broadcast by the government radio later said one bomb wrecked the tomb of the Turkish Unknown Soldier.

Vice President Fazil Kutchuk, leader of the Turkish community, called the bombings a very serious matter and another Turkish leader, Rauf Denktaş, appealed to Turkish Cypriots not to attempt reprisals.

The early morning explosions were first believed to be just noisemaking associated traditionally with Greek Independence Day.

MRS. Elizabeth M. Rogers, Price's Dr., Cresco, died at 1:15 a.m. yesterday in Veteran's Hospital, Philadelphia, after a six-month illness.

She was born in Brooklyn, the daughter of Charles and Elena Misson Gronquist, and was the widow of Joseph E. Rogers.

Mrs. Rogers was librarian of the Barrett Friendly Library until illness and was a member and Women's Club.

During World War I, she served as a yeomanette with the U. S. Navy.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Cresco, and a brother, Lawrence T. Gordon, Garden City, Long Island.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the William H. Clark Funeral Home, Rev. John D. O'Neill will officiate and burial will be in Moravian Cemetery, Canadensis.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Andrew L. Fox Former Resident

ANDREW Lawrence Fox, formerly of East Stroudsburg, died at his home in Asbury, N.J., at 4:30 a.m. Monday.

He was the son of the late Ellis and Allie Fox of Washington and was formerly night watchman at the now extinct Water Gap Throwing Co. on Brown St., East Stroudsburg.

Surviving are his wife, the former Carlotta Styres; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Stocker, Asbury; five brothers, John, East Stroudsburg; George, Frenchtown, N.J.; Manning and Ellis, Washington, N.J.; and Thomas Fox, Oxford, N.J.; two sisters, Mrs. Della Cassidy and Mrs. Florence Kilson, both of Oxford; three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the DeVoe Funeral Home, Washington. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Ex-Resident Of Henryville

MRS. Clara Henry Baumann, of 423 N. Ninth St., Allentown, died Saturday in her home. She was the wife of Walter J. Baumann.

She was born in Henryville, the daughter of the late David and Jennie Henry, one of the early families to settle in the area.

Mrs. Baumann was a member of the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

In addition to her husband she is survived by one daughter, Miss Ruth Baumann, at home; one son, Henry, Henryville, and three grandchildren. Also a sister-in-law Mrs. Martha Henry, Henryville.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Stephens Funeral Home, Allentown. Interment will be in the Grand View Cemetery, Allentown.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Wednesday from noon until time of service.

Spare Tire, Rim Stolen In Eastburg

JAMES W. Toner of 965 Drake Lane, Stroudsburg, reported to the East Stroudsburg Police yesterday that a spare tire and rim was stolen from his car Sunday between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. while he attended church.

Toner said he parked his car on Broadhead Ave while attending church and when he returned to the car he discovered the trunk had been opened and the tire and rim were missing.

East Stroudsburg Police will continue the investigation today.

Students Visit Pocono Art Center

MICHAEL Jacabella, sixth grade teacher of Middle Smithfield elementary school, and 36 pupils from his grade recently visited the Pocono Art Center in East Stroudsburg. Also visiting the center were two Sixth Grade classes of J.M. Hill elementary school, East Stroudsburg.

While at the center the children heard an informal lecture by Mrs. David Harriton. She spoke of the display of paintings, painted by her husband David Harriton, and articles brought back from Mexico.

Teachers accompanying the J. M. Hill elementary school pupils were Elizabeth Rockefeller and Wilma Moore.

St. John's To Hold Fourth Lenten Series

ST. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, will hold the fourth in a series of Lenten services Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. The Rev. Peter N. Wohlsen, pastor emeritus, will conduct the services.

Following the service the A.F. Everitt Sunday School class will meet.

The guest speaker for Sunday, April 1, will be the Rev. Norman Bakken. He will preach at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services.

Grass Blazes Giving Firemen Headaches

By Don Allen
Daily Record Reporter

THIS is the grass fire season — and volunteer firemen and their employers are, once again, going out of their minds.

On any given day, the volunteer can be expected to be called upon for one to three or more times to fight these seldom serious, but always potentially so, blazes.

What this does to the firemen's nerves and to his employer's work schedule has never been fully recorded.

But it's a well-known fact that the firemen detect grass fires. And it's also a fact that some employers are grumbling over the number of times and the length of time their employees spend at fires.

The cost to the taxpayer is also something which cannot accurately be computed. But, with an average of three trucks responding to most alarms, the cost in gasoline and oil, to say nothing of depreciation to the trucks, must be considerable.

Of the three most populous municipal sub-divisions in Monroe County, two — Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg — have ordinances which regulate burning of trash and garbage and, in theory, should prevent or at least alleviate much of the hazards of grass fires.

Stroud Township does not have an ordinance, although Fire Chief Lester Rice says, "I wish we had."

At best, however, the ordinances are usually enforced only by firemen and only after there has been a fire resulting from a violation of the rules.

Neighbors are understandably reluctant to blow the whistle on their friends and relatives for two reasons — harmony and the fact that the reporter may one day become the reportee if he decides to do a little illegal burning.

And there is the vast majority — despite repeated publicity on the subject — who don't know, or claim they don't know, about the ordinances.

Spring, of course, is the traditional clean-up time. The result is that this season has more trash fires and, because of them, more brush and grass fires than at any other time of the year.

Law or no law, there are a few simple rules, using common sense as a basis, which anyone can follow to avoid a fine. They include:

1. Burn rubbish and trash in a fireproof container with a cover with small enough mesh that burning particles cannot escape.

2. Don't burn when a stiff wind is blowing and stay at least 15 feet away from any building.

3. Never, under any circumstances, start a fire and leave while it is still burning.

4. If a fire does get out of hand, don't try to bring it under control. Call the fire department.

There are others, of course. What they all add up to is this: It might save you as much as $100 if you use common courtesy and common sense.

Stroud Union High Choral Groups Busy In 1961-62

CHORAL organizations of the Stroud Union High School are preparing for their annual Spring concert to be held Saturday night, March 31, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The groups have been busy since last fall, providing entertainment for many occasions.

Last October the Girls Ensemble opened the 1961-62 performance season, singing for the Music Parents, and later for the Amaranth fall banquet at Onawa Lodge.

December found the same group singing Christmas programs for the Senior Women's Club, the Music Study Club, and the DAR, as well as being part of the high school Christmas program.

All of the choral groups — the Mixed Chorus, Girls Ensemble, High School Choir, and the Mountaineers — performed in the Christmas program which was presented at East Stroudsburg State College auditorium for the Student Education Association: At the high school for the general public, and again for the student body. Part of this program was also presented to Rotary Club of Stroudsburg.

During the present month the choir sang at one of the vespers services at the East Stroudsburg.

The Pancake Festival will be held Saturday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg.

New Commercial Vehicle Law

Enforcement Only By Complaint

STATE REP. VAN D. YETTER, JR., has been notified that a recent law requiring commercial vehicles to have letters at least three inches high painted upon them giving the name of the owner or business will not be enforced unless there is a complaint filed.

Roy A. Schafer, secretary to Gov. David L. Lawrence, indicated that enforcement will be held up until it is seen what the next session of the Legislature plans to do about the measure, which has received considerable criticism.

Schafer said a memorandum prepared by Secretary of Revenue Charles M. Dougherty provides that Act 572 will not be enforced as part of the official state inspection regulations, nor will State Police enforce it unless they receive a complaint.

The B-70 Again

The House Armed Services Committee has expressed its unanimous disagreement with Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, in "directing" that the B-70 supersonic jet bomber be constructed for the nation's defense.

This is a victory for General Curtis LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff, and for all those who have argued against complete reliance on rockets and missiles in the immediate future.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and President John Kennedy after him, both accepted recommendations of their Defense Secretaries that the B-70 be built only as a prototype—two or three aircraft. Congress dissented and voted funds for building B-70's. But the executive branch of government did not spend the money.

Now Congress is preparing for a constitutional test, relying on Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution, which gives the Congress the power to raise and support the armed forces. If the bill passed by the House Armed Services Committee passes Congress, then it will be up to the Defense Department to defy a specific law, if the B-70 is not built.

The Air Force, which favors the B-70 program, thinks that it is a mistake to place all-out reliance on missiles at this stage of their development. It points out that both the B-47 and the B-52 are now old bombers and that the B-70, which will fly three times the speed of sound, will give the United States a reliable air arm to do what missiles might not, or cannot do.

This is sound reasoning. General LeMay is, of course, right. There can be no gambling on missiles if maximum security is to be obtained. Even if the B-70 proves unneeded, it should be built. But General LeMay lost his personal appeal at the White House. He won the first battle in Congress, however.

Project Constitution

It will be some time before the results of Project Constitution are made known, but those who are concerned about constitutional government in the State will anticipate them with a great deal of interest.

Project Constitution is the name given to the sweeping study of Pennsylvania's 88-year-old Constitution being conducted as a public service by the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

Fourteen study committees are collaborating in the non-partisan project to determine what changes, if any, are needed and whether or not a constitutional convention is the best way to bring them about. When all committee studies have been completed, the membership of the association will be polled for its opinion.

There are few more worthy public service projects which the State's legal minds could undertake than a study of the Constitution. Although it is far too early to predict what will come out of it, it is safe to say that it can do no harm and, certainly will do a lot of good if only in the sense of broadening general knowledge of the document on which the State's government is grounded.

In general, one thing can be said about constitutions: they cannot possibly anticipate all future needs of people and should not be looked upon as so basic that they cannot be changed or even discarded in favor of others which meet the needs of the times.

The State has had four Constitutions since 1776. The first lasted 14 years, the second 48 years and the third 36 years. Our present Constitution has been in force for 88 years and has been amended many times. Perhaps the Pennsylvania Bar Association's study will help show us whether or not it still meets the needs of the Commonwealth.

Republicans And Conservatives

The great mass of Republicans welcome the conservatives of various shades of opinion because they may help to win elections for Governors, Senators and Representatives in 1962. Many Republican leaders fear this conservative infiltration, believing that, in time, the conservatives may take over their party as the Americans for Democratic Action have gained mastery of the Democratic Party and as the Liberal Party in New York City has captured New York during an interlocking fight among the Democrats.

The conservatives have the advantage of being able, during this early stage of their development, to have a popular candidate for the Presidency, Senator Barry Goldwater. They suffer the disadvantage of being made up of a very young, intellectual group with leadership aspirations and abilities, and of an over-age element which confuses conservatism with reaction. The Republican Party cannot accept all these elements.

Governor Charles Edison, a leader among conservatives, said at a Madison Square Garden rally that all conservatives should get together, which is like saying that Norman Thomas should agree with Khrushchev because they both call themselves Socialists. It is a negation of reality.

In New York State, a new party, the Conservative Party, is being organized mostly by young lawyers. This has attracted considerable attention among politicians who fear that should such a party be on the ballot, Governor Nelson Rockefeller would suffer in his effort to be re-elected. Should the Democratic candidate for Governor be Mayor Robert Wagner, two liberals will be running against each other.

Douglas Caddy, National Director, Young Americans for Freedom Inc., does not favor a Conservative Party, as a third party. He has said: "As a supporter of Senator Goldwater, I cannot reconcile myself to the strategy mapped out by those who wish to fight the political wars of conservatism outside the two-party structure. In the case of the announced plan of the newly-organized Conservatives should ask themselves: Will the defeat of Governor Rockefeller, admittedly a liberal Republican, and his replacement in Albany by, say, New York's Mayor Wagner, an ultra-liberal Democrat, benefit the conservative cause?"

It is, of course, a sound question to which the answer could be that such an election might weaken the Republican Party in New York State until it loses all authority. No one can accept the progressive Republicanism of Senator Jacob Javits as having any relationship to any form or manner of Republicanism.

He may be re-elected for reasons other than that he runs on the Republican ticket, but his partnership cannot be accepted by conservatives. He has made his own record and it is not a record for which a conservative of any hue can vote.

This is an issue with which Caddy does not deal; that is, he ignores the fact that during the Eisenhower Administration, two types of Republicans prevailed, the big businessmen, for whom President Eisenhower had considerable respect, and the progressive Republican who believed that he could play intellectual tricks upon the American people by imitating the A.D.A.

There is not too much time for the Republicans to make an important dent on the November 1962 election. Senator Barry Goldwater travels the country making speeches, but his are conservative Republican speeches. Can Barry Goldwater support a progressive Republican to hold the party together? Richard Nixon, whose political fate depends upon his election as Governor of California, has asserted his opposition to the John Birch Society which is the general attitude of the Republican leadership but not of Republican rank and file throughout the country. The John Birch Society is particularly active in California and Texas. The political influence of this Society will be measured by what it does in California.

This much seems certain: there is bound to be a conservative break-through politically. The emergence of Senator Barry Goldwater is a symptom; the election of Senator John Tower in Texas is another symptom. These men are definitely conservatives. But there must be more than that to accomplish such a break-through as the liberals accomplished when they captured the Democratic Party.

For the country, it would be a normal and wholesome development if the names Republican and Democratic were dropped, as they have by 1962 lost specific meaning, and the words, conservative and liberal, substituted.

About Town

Any Airy Notes:

The high school daughter of a well known boatmaker was fond of going out on dates and it was early one morning when she came in and tried to explain to her indignant father why she had come home so late.

"What's the idea of going out in that sailor's car and not getting home until five in the morning?"

"But daddy," cried the daughter, "we were becalmed."

"How can you get becalmed in an automobile?" exclaimed the irate father.

"The wind died down in two of "his tires," explained the girl.

The Pennsylvania Story

Light-Footed Primary

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — It is a bit paradoxical perhaps that Pennsylvania Democrats, puffing out a somewhat light-footed primary campaign, find themselves in the position of being among the elite "financially plush."

This is within the paradoxical realm simply because habitually Keystone State Democrats in years past have been on the lean end of the financial stick.

In fact it had reached the point where Pennsylvania donkey riders somewhat proudly pointed to the fact that they were the "underdog element" (which they were in fact) not only in acquiring office but in the matter of being the "wealthy" party.

These two points heretofore have been among the big attractions in the party's "mass appeal" strategy.

They have been the ones who — like the "little fellow" — had no money. They have been the ones who — again like the little fellow — were on the "outs" insofar as gaining top rung offices were concerned.

Thus it is both ironical and paradoxical that Democrats this year enter the fight-of-their-life fray both the top dog on the minority-majority scale insofar as holding key state offices is concerned, and literally loaded with campaign funds.

To many an old pol who has lingered at the trough during the peak of the Democratic drought of past years the situation is glowing — and highly consoling.

To the more practical chieftains who look to the vote schedule in the upcoming months, the possibility of the Democratic Party becoming known as the "financial fat cat" party is somewhat appalling.

While these strategists admittedly gaze admiringly on the glittering gold prospectus facing them this year, it is nevertheless becoming one of those seat squirming conditions, over which they have little or no control.

The watchword still is one of "fiscal conservatism," insofar as party face is concerned. The mere prospect of plodding through the coming campaign year with an adequacy of campaign funds is certainly somewhat of a novel twist for Pennsylvania donkey-riders.

This is not meant to imply that the tremendous well of financial assistance needed for the heavy campaign ahead already has been filled.

The point to be made however is that when the call goes out to the faithful — lead pipes and knee patches will not be standard equipment this year for those charged with the task of soliciting.

The "campaign fund dinner" which has become an integral part of Democratic strategy in years past, is expected to be exceedingly successful in the months ahead. Experiences of the recent past in this respect have shown festive boards loaded to overflowing.

Additionally, the contributions from the Democratic-controlled state payroll will aid materially — along with "business interests" and labor unions — in the present administration.

In a sense it is an oddity that business and labor should seemingly get together on this fine point. Actually this is not the case. Each is moving independent of the other. "Business" in this sense refers not to industry as a whole — but rather to those doing business with the state.

This year is not destined to be a lean year — financially — for campaigning Pennsylvania Democrats.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

It isn't exactly earth-shattering news when M. Stiles Baldwin makes the sports pages of The Daily Record. In fact most of his efforts for athletics here and afar are taken for granted.

Not that Marty doesn't deserve the accolades for his constant promoting of sports affairs, personalities etc. It's just that the Pocono personality is expected to perform admirably daily, weekly, monthly and yearly in a business that brings reams of publicity to the mountains that Jack didn't build.

However, when an individual like Baldwin starts making society columns that is news. Recently the Greensboro Daily News offered a few words about the Stroudsburg RD resident. It was penned by Doris Dale Reynolds, society editor of the North Carolina newspaper.

This is what she had to say about Baldwin:

SMALL WORLD — After spending down to midnight or later with women all week the sight of a male becomes a rarity to enjoy. This is not leading up to any true confession but rather a chance, and very pleasant, interlude. The room was almost full when we arrived yesterday at Coty's cocktail party for the editors. As long as we had some choice as to a table we selected one with a genial-looking man as decoration. After a moment of small talk in which we identified home towns, the sizable guest asked if by any possible chance we knew a Greensboro who was the best friend he had in the world. The last name we expected to hear was Fouts Fershire, our uncle.

Our companion was Marty Baldwin of East Stroudsburg, Pa., general manager of Olympic Reconditioning Co. He's here for the eastern sporting goods show, minus wife Henrietta, and had been asked along to the party by Stroudsburg editors. A regular, if not frequent, visitor to Greensboro, he asked to be remembered to Mabel and Fouts and to tell them that he'll probably be down in April.

The purpose of the party was to introduce Coty's new 10 lipsticks in "pure bright" tones. That means without any of the white flecks currently whitewashing the flats. We were hopeful of better things until we saw new coloring which still makes women look as if they were just over a bout with double pneumonia.

The Allen-Scott Report

Ghana, Guinea Arms Buildup By Communists

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington—The highly accurate Defense Intelligence Agency reports sensational disclosures of Communist arms build-ups in and deliveries to two of Africa's strategic nations.

In Ghana, the pro-Soviet government of President Kwame Nkrumah has just received 900 tons of Communist-made automatic weapons, rifles, small arms and ammunition from Russia.

Arriving aboard two Soviet Freighters, the arms began showing up this week in warehouses in Accra, capital of Ghana. Soviet agents and known Ghanaian Communists were spotted directing the unloading and stockpiling of these weapons.

In Guinea, the Chinese Communists are constructing two arms manufacturing plants for President Sekou Toure, who describes himself as an African non-Communist Marxist.

More than 200 Chinese Communist technicians, trained by the Soviet, were counted working on the plants, which are being equipped to turn out Soviet-type rifles and automatic weapons.

According to the DIA estimate, Ghana and Guinea are being used by the Kremlin and Peiping as the revolutionary arms centers for supplying weapons to pro-Communist groups throughout all of Africa. The final destinations of the Ghana arms shipments are believed to be strife-torn Portuguese Angola and the Congo, where the weapons are to be turned over to pro-Communist rebel forces.

The DIA is checking one report that some of the Ghana arms are destined for Brazil and Colombia to covertly arm pro-Castro forces in these Latin American countries.

The surprise arrival in Guinea of the large number of Chinese Communist technicians is viewed by Defense Department officials as Peiping's first major effort to get a foothold in Africa.

The Big Gamble—President Kennedy is pinning his hope for the success of his multi-billion dollar Alliance for Progress program on what happens in two Latin American countries.

Argentina and Brazil can determine the success or failure of the Alliance for Progress, the President bluntly told Democratic congressional leaders at a White House conference. The President's frank opinion came when Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., asked for the Administration's views on the explosive Argentina elections. The voting there saw former dictator Peron's backers make sensational gains.

"While this election development is not what we wanted, and is most unfortunate," reported the President, "it also reveals what can happen to a country that is neglected for 10 years."

He pointed out that, "The Peronists drained the country of its capital and left behind a strong political organization that took advantage of the failure of the Frondizi government to give the people needed social reforms."

Under questioning by a House leader, the President admitted that the State Department had encouraged the Frondizi government to initiate the austerity program that played a role in his party's election setback.

"It had been hoped that the ultimately beneficial results of such a program would begin to show before the election," explained the President. "The recovery did not develop fast enough, and the jobless, especially the 100,000 railroad workers, and others hurt by the austerity program voted against Frondizi's party."

"Frondizi is a supporter of your program," said Senator Humphrey. "Why didn't that help his party?"

"Loans under the program were made too recently to have had any electoral effect there," answered the President. "Actually, only about nine million dollars has been turned over to that country. Rather than casting discredit on the program, the election demonstrates the need to expedite our aid."

The President noted that in Colombia and Venezuela, where reforms and public works have actually gone forward under the Alliance for Progress program, the electorate has shown appreciative awareness.

"Our surveys show that 80 percent of those queried in Colombia and Venezuela knew about the program," the President said, "whereas such response made up less than 20 percent of the total in Argentina, and only 25 per cent in Brazil." Asked whether the U. S. would recognize a military junta in Argentina, the President replied: "Of course, we will have to recognize and deal with them. We can't afford to have followers of dictator Peron take over with Communist backing."

In closing, the President noted Brazilian President Joao Goulart's coming visit, stating: "President Goulart's visit affords an opportunity to clear the air on basic policies in Latin America and tie down the direction of the Alliance program."

Foreign Flashes—The following are rationed meat prices set by Castro's Domestic Commerce Ministry: "Choice" meat, 80 cents a lb.; "first-class" meat, 45 cents a lb.; "second-class cuts," 34 cents a lb. Something called "fillet cuts," $1.30 a lb. The joker in these prices is that very little meat is available. It has been several weeks since most stores have had any to sell. . . . The Ford Foundation is completing an agreement with Jordan under which it will get multi-million dollar technical aid. The transaction has the approval of the U. S. . . . Japan and Russia have opened negotiations on a cultural agreement—the first between the two countries. Under the contemplated proposal, exchanges will be limited to "scholars, researchers and governmental publications."

Egypt now has 14 producing oil wells, the first in the history of the country. But they are supplying only an insignificant amount of the oil needed by Egypt. Meanwhile, dictator Nasser is under increasing pressure from mounting political and economic problems. Elements in the armed forces are becoming sharply critical of his bombastic zigging and zagging, and business and financial interests are openly hostile. It's a public secret in Egypt that large amounts of gold, jewels and other assets are being secretly carried out of the country despite official efforts to prevent that. . . . Czechoslovakia has agreed to supply Cuba with a cement plant on long-term credit. Czech officials are silent on the terms of this deal; how much Castro is being charged for the plant, and exactly how he is to pay for it. Intelligence authorities are convinced the plant is actually being financed by the Kremlin. Reportedly, the annual will have a 300,000-ton plant cement output.

Sand Hill Church Set For Mission

SAND HILL Methodist Church will join nearly 1000 other churches of the denomination in the Newark Conference Area April 1-8 in conducting a United Evangelistic Mission in each community. The mission will have a three fold purpose: to stimulate the spiritual life of the parishes, to reclaim inactive members and to add members to church rolls.

Visiting teams have been recruited and trained in preparation for this endeavor.

Visitors will be consecrated at the morning service April 1, before they go out into the community to make their calls. At the service April 8, persons who have committed themselves to join the church will participate in a service of dedication.

Membership training classes will be conducted and special efforts will be made to assimilate the new members into the spiritual program of the church.

Special services will be held during the week of April 1-8 at the Sand Hill Church on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:00 p.m.

Guest speakers will officiate at these dedication services.

SS Funds Enough For Outlay

INCOME to the two social security trust funds exceeded outgo by $409 million during fiscal year 1961, according to the 22nd Annual Report, sent to Congress recently by the trustees of the funds.

Harry R. Peleman, District Manager of the Eastern Social Security Office, said yesterday that the official figures given in the trustees' report show that income to the two funds during the rest of this decade and on into the long range future will be sufficient to cover all outlays for benefits.

Income to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund during the past fiscal year amounted to $11,814 million, including $322 million interest on invested assets, Peleman said. Total disbursements for the year were $11,743 million. At the end of June 1961 the fund stood at $20.9 billion.

Total income to the Disability Insurance Trust Fund during fiscal year 1961 came to $1,082 million, including $60 million in interest on investments. Disbursements were $745 million and the assets of the fund at the end of the fiscal year totalled $2,504 million.

The three trustees of the funds — the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Labor, and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare — are required by law to make a report to Congress each year on the operations and status of the funds during the previous fiscal year and on their expected operations and status for many years into the future. According to the trustees' estimates, disbursements from the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund during fiscal year 1962 will exceed income, mainly because of the effect of the 1961 amendments. In fiscal year 1963, income and outgo are expected to be in approximate balance. In every year thereafter on into the long range future, income to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund is expected to exceed outgo.

The assets of the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund are expected to amount to $22.2 billion by the end of December 1965. By December 1970, they will have increased to $33.7 billion. At the end of 1975, it is estimated that the fund will amount to $99.6 billion. By the end of 1975, assets of the Disability Insurance Trust Fund are expected to total $2.9 billion.

Area Fire Danger Warning Issued

A warning of fire danger to the "precious heritage" of the state's 15 million acres of timberland during the spring fire season, just getting underway, has been issued by the Pennsylvania Forestry Association.

Eugene F. McNamara of Stroudsburg, president of the citizen's forest conservation group, pointed out that the forest fire threat is at one of two annual peaks during the spring season.

"Warm sunshine, gusty spring winds, dry grasses and dry leaves make an explosive mixture," he said. "With this combination, the tiniest spark can set off a roaring fire."

It is up to everyone, McNamara said, to exercise extreme caution with fire in and near the woods to see that no tiny sparks get away.

An especially serious threat during spring is from debris fires spreading to adjacent woodlands. This threat can be minimized by following the advice of Howdy, the association's Good Outdoor Manners raccoon.

He says: (1. Never burn trash or woody debris in unprotected spots from which fire can spread to forest areas, (2. Do not leave any fire unattended until it is completely out; (3. Burn during early morning or evening hours when air moisture is high and temperatures low; (4. Do not burn at all during dry windy weather; and (5. Use a covered burner when disposing of household trash.

McNamara said the excellent cooperation and care with fire by all citizens was a major factor in helping the state to set an all time low record for forest fires last year. He said the association hopes the record will be even better this year.

"It takes perpetual vigilance to prevent forest fires to keep Pennsylvania Green", he added.

Mrs. Hartman Honored By Her Family

Cherry Valley — Mrs. Linnie Hartman was honored on her 79th birthday March 25 at a buffet supper held in the Cherry Valley Grange Hall, Stormville, by members of her family. Spring flowers decorated the hall which had been placed on the chancel of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church, in her honor, for that morning's worship service.

She is one of the oldest members of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church where she has been a member all her life.

She has five children: Agnes, now Mrs. Livingston Gunn with whom she resides; Lorenz, John, Jacob and Mary, now Mrs. Ernest Williams. She has 19 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

Among her gifts were several decorated cakes.

Those attending the supper were: Mrs. Livingston Gunn, Cherry Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Hartman and Janice; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beebe and Ann, Linda and Mariclaire; Thomas Wettlaufer, Mrs. William Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hartman and Jimmy and Steven and Mr. and Mrs. James Deck and Bernice, all of Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shafer and Barbara and Debra, Pen Argyl and Jerry Flank, Stockertown, also attended.

Guests from Saylorsburg were: Mrs. Mary Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faustick and Allen, Robert and Fred, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scott and Terry.

Mrs. Alfred Hennett and twin daughters, Jean and June and Katherine and Thomas attended from Delaware Water Gap.

Joining the celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gunn, and Mrs. Robert Hartman and Nell; Erent Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Miller and Bradford, Linnie and Dina; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartman and Craig and Bambi; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams and Penny; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams and Paula and Kathy; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Williams and Annette; Mr. and Mrs. John Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hartman, all of Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Raymond Lockard, Warren, Ohio and Mrs. Harry Bond, Ft. Pierce, Fla. were unable to attend.

Lenten Speaker Mrs. N. Meyers

The Women's Association of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will be in charge of the Lenten Service Wednesday, 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Nathan Meyers will present the message.

The business meeting and program will be held in the Sunday School room. Miss Nuala Downey, Rotary Exchange student from New Zealand will be guest speaker.

The Lydia Circle will be hostesses.

Stained Glass Panes Discussed By WSCS

Mt. Zion—Mrs. Willard Sandt led the devotional topic, "The Great Physician Is Still Healing," when the Women's Society of Christian Service of Mt. Zion Methodist Church, Chipperfield Drive, met at the church for their March meeting.

The opening Scripture was read by Mrs. Earl Lee, Jr. Mrs. William Evans played the piano accompanied by hymn singing. Others participating in the devotional program, were: Mrs. Arthur Shamp, Mrs. Howard Teda and Mrs. Roy Heller.

The group moved to the annex for the business session, with Mrs. Earl Sandt, presiding. Reports were presented by Mrs. Howard Teda and Mrs. Roy Heller.

Plans were made to hold a rummage sale at the former Army and Navy Store, at the corner of Fifth and Main Streets, Stroudsburg, on Thursday and Friday, March 29 and 30. Donations of articles for the sale would be appreciated. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Earl Sandt or Mrs. Earl Lee, Sr.

World Banks were opened and when the returns were counted the amount contributed was found to be $11.50. All banks have not been returned as yet.

It was reported that many liquid embroidered items had been completed for the annual bazaar and some were displayed.

Reservations were made for four members to attend the annual ingathering at Fritz Memorial Church, Bethlehem, on March 27. Numerous articles for the ingathering were brought in. Persons still having articles to contribute were urged to bring them to the church, or give to Mrs. Earl Sandt or Mrs. Earl Lee, Sr., no later than Sunday, March 25.

It was announced that speakers for the ingathering will be Miss Mary Bope, of the Deaconess Home, and Mrs. Robert Kerr, of Esther Hall.

The purchase of stained glass windows for the church was discussed. It was reported that two representatives of window companies had been to the church and displayed samples, and several representatives of other companies will come in the near future.

It was decided that the April meeting would be held on the second Thursday of the month, April 12, because there would be Holy Communion services held at the church on the regular WSCS meeting date.

Election of officers will be held at the April meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Howard Teda and Mrs. Arthur Shamp. Decorations were in the St. Patrick's Day mode.

Fourteen members and one guest were present.

Each member is to bring handwork of her choice and a sandwich. Dessert and beverage will be supplied by the hostess. Each member was reminded to bring in all orders for Easter Candy.

Petchel Considered For Reading Grid Job

No Decision Expected 'Til May; Coached Title Club

By Curt Prins
Sports Editor

PEN Argyl High Football coach Elwood Petchel is being considered for the head football coaching job at Reading High School, the Daily Record learned last night.

Petchel, who has been at Pen Argyl for a year, confirmed rumors that he had been interviewed for the Reading job, formerly held by Andy Stopper. However, Petchel denied that he had accepted the job.

"I was interviewed a few weeks ago," said Petchel, "but the Reading people said they would not make up their minds for about two more weeks."

Ken Tuckey of the Reading Times sports staff told the Record by phone that the Reading school board will not name the new coach until sometime in May. Tuckey added that more than 60 coaches had been interviewed for the job and there will be more interviewed before a selection is made.

Won't Comment

Petchel, a former Penn State great, would not say if he would accept the Reading job if it were offered to him.

Petchel coached Lehigh Valley football last year when he guided Pen Argyl to a 9-1 record and the Lehigh-Northampton League championship in his first year at the State Belt school.

The Green Knights had only mediocre teams in recent years before Petchel took over. After losing the opening game of last season to Muhlenberg Twp., Pen Argyl swept nine straight games, winning not only the L.N. league but the Daily Record sponsored Pocono State Belt championship. The Lehigh-Northampton crown was the first Pen Argyl had won since 1947.

Petchel came to Pen Argyl from Springfield High School in Amsterdam, Ohio, where he compiled a 13-2 record in two years. He previously coached at Columbus, Ohio, recording a 22-14 mark and his teams at Bellwood-Antis near Altoona, won 20 straight games.

Time For Change

Reading had a 3-6-1 record under Stopper last year. Two months ago the school board fired Stopper, explaining that it felt it was time to make a change.

Stopper spent 16 years at Reading, compiling an 82-70-7 record for a .539 winning percentage. His best year was in 1951, when the club was 9-1. Reading, except for two years, managed at least six wins a season after that until 1958. In the past four years, Reading has had a 14-24-2.

Stopper has developed many great college stars, including Lenny Moore of Penn State and the Baltimore Colts, Ed Albright, Fred and Lew Mautino, all of Syracuse University.

Jack Weingart ... Leaves Tamiment

Weingart Named Head Pro At New Hampshire Course

FOR the second time within a week, a Pocono area golf pro has moved to a new job.

The latest to make a switch is Jack Weingart, who has been head pro at Tamiment in the Poconos for the past four years. Weingart moves to the Kersage Valley Country Club, North Sutton, N.H. He starts his new head pro's job May 1 but not before he leaves the bachelor ranks.

Weingart will be married to the former Gene Dargon of Woodside, N.Y., on April 21 in New York City. Miss Dargon was employed at Tamiment last summer as a secretary.

A few days ago, Shawnee Inn assistant pro John Chimenti resigned his post there to become head pro at the Lochland C.C. in the Midwest.

Plan New Nine

The Kersage Valley course has only nine holes at the present time but its owner, famous golf architect William Mitchell, plans to open a second nine this summer. The eventual plan is to turn Kersage Valley into a summer resort.

Weingart like Chimenti, is a former assistant pro to Harry Obitz at Shawnee Inn. When Obitz took over the Tamiment operation, Weingart was installed as the head pro. Last year he teamed with V. L. Yanovich as Tamiment head pro. Yanovich will remain at Tamiment. Weingart spent the winter as an Obitz assistant pro at Palm Aire C.C., Pompano Beach, Fla.

Weingart is one of the founders of the Pocono Professional Golf Assn. and has served on the associations' board of directors for two years.

The California native has been in golf for almost 10 years and as an amateur won several California major events.

Weingart has been low pro in three PPGA tournaments and has guided his pro-am teams to four victories.

Athletic Owner Says No Moving

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—General Manager Pat Friday denies reports the Kansas City Athletics will not give a radio or television sponsor more than a one-year contract because owner Charles Finley plans to move the club from Kansas City. Hamlin Brewing Co. wanted a three-year contract. Asked about it, Friday said the part about moving the club wasn't true but that "we didn't want to be tied up with a paper contract for that length of time."

Finley wasn't available for comment. He is in a hospital here for treatment of an apparent virus infection.

Cincy Drafts Bucks' Lucas As 1st Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lucas, two-time Player of the Year for Ohio State, was snapped up by the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association in the annual draft of college players Monday.

All-America Lucas was one of two territorial picks. The other was Dave DeBruessche of Detroit, grabbed by the Detroit Pistons.

The Chicago Packers, who had the first pick after the territorial choices were out of the way, nabbed All-America Billy McGill of Utah, 6-foot-9 national scoring leader with a 38.8 game average.

The New York Knickerbockers, who wanted McGill badly, chose Paul Hogue, Cincinnati's 6-foot-9 center, picked the most valuable player in leading his team to its second straight NCAA title over Ohio State Saturday night.

The St. Louis Hawks went for another tournament MVP, Zelmo Beatty of Prairie View, Tex., winner of the NAIA small college tourney.

Other Picks

In other first-round picks: Syracuse got Len Chappell, Wake Forest All-America; Philadelphia took Wayne Hightower, 6-foot-9 former Kansas player who is now playing amateur basketball in Spain; Los Angeles chose Leroy Ellis, 6-foot-10 pivotman of St. John's of New York; and Boston took John Havlicek, Ohio State captain.

All the first-round choices were pivemen, except for DeBruessche and Havlicek, both 6 feet 5. However, only Hogue and Ellis are likely to play the pivot for their pro clubs, with the others shifted to forward posts.

The Knicks were desperate for a scoring center, and Los Angeles, Western Division titlist, only a little less so.

Chicago grabbed All-America Terry Dischinger of Purdue on the second round.

Syracuse, in plucking Chappell and Walker, got two of the five All-America players on the Associated Press team. Chicago got two others, in McGill and Dischinger.

English Jockey Rides 3 Winners

LINCOLN, England (AP)—Jockey Lester Piggott rode three winners Monday for a 604-1 treble on the opening day of England's horse racing season over flat courses.

Piggott, 26, who finished second to Australian Scobie Breasley in last season's British champion, had only three mounts Monday—all winners.

Piggott won with Vilbar, a 9-1 betting shot, Lyonado at 10-1 and Ironie at 9-2.

Police Group Against Liston

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—A central Pennsylvania policemen's organization formally protested Friday against the planned heavyweight boxing championship match between Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston.

A resolution adopted by Susquehanna Valley Lodge 52 of the Fraternal Order of Police, objected to Liston, the challenger for the title held by Patterson.

The group said it based its position on the fact Liston has a police record. The lodge represents 11 central Pennsylvania police departments.

Goalby Wins Doral Open On Last Hole

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bill Casper Jr., won the $30,000 Doral Country Club Open Monday after rookie Paul Bondeson stumbled in the home stretch when he had the $9,000 first prize and one of professional golf's greatest upsets almost in his grasp.

The issue was decided on the final green, when Bondeson, 22, missed a 10-foot putt that would have given him a tie and put him in a sudden-death playoff with Casper. The ball rimmed the cup.

On a tough new golf course, in a tournament plagued by high winds, Casper posted a 72-hole total of 283, five under par.

Casper, a Californian, shot a one-under-par 71 in the final round while Bondeson was slipping to 73.

Finally Folds

Going into the last nine, Bondeson had a three-stroke lead over the field. Under the pressure of a golf pack including virtually every top pro in the world, he had stood up nobly with a two-under-par 34 on the outgoing nine.

Playing in the same threesome with Casper, Bondeson led his closest opponent by four strokes through the 11th. It was on the 13th hole that he faltered.

What turned out to be the deciding stroke was a 35-foot putt by Casper for a birdie duce on the 15th, while Bondeson was registering a par.

They continued in a deadlock through the next two holes and at the 18th, the gallery groaned when Bondeson missed his putt and his chances for a playoff by such a hairline margin.

It was a huge disappointment to Bondeson to miss the clutch putt, but still he won $4,600, a bonanza to a youth who had cashed only one check for $192.50 in 11 previous tournaments since he joined the tour.

Jack Nicklaus, another younger generation threat who had shared the first-round lead, wound up in third place at 285. Ben Hogan, the old master of another era, stood up gallantly against the strong younger stars, finishing in a fourth place tie at 286 with Ted Kroll.

The only other player who beat par was Bob Goalby with 287. Goalby, who was tied with Bondeson at the end of the third round, stumbled Monday to a 76.

Bill Casper, $9,000 70-67-75-71—283
Paul Bondeson, $4,600 71-73-67-73—284
Jack Nicklaus, $3,000 69-74-69-73—285
Ben Hogan, $2,450 74-72-71-69—286
Ted Kroll, $2,450 72-72-70-72—286

Japanese Champ Scores Knockout

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Kazuo Takayama, Japan's featherweight champion, scored a second round knockout over Pepino Morales, Mexican featherweight, in a scheduled 10-round non-title bout Monday night.

The Japanese flattened the Mexican with a powerful left hook to the jaw in 2:56 seconds of the second round. Takayama weighed 130 pounds, Morales 129½.

Orioles Belt Five Homers Off Mets

Baltimore's youthful Orioles, who normally rely on pitching and fielding finesse, laid on the muscle Monday in an 18-3 exhibition romp against the New York Mets.

Brooks Robinson spearheaded the power display, slugging a 450-foot homer, a double and a single and driving in six runs.

Also included in the Orioles' 21-hit output were two homers by Dave Nicholson, one each by John Powell and Russ Snyder, a triple by Marv Throneberry and doubles by Johnny Temple and Jerry Adair.

The well-battered victim was Jay Hook, a front-line pitching hope for the new Mets, who was tagged for 17 hits and 16 runs before giving way to Evans Killean in the seventh. Baltimore's Dick Hall and Tom Baker gave the Mets 12 hits, including homers by Jim Marshall and Gil Hodges.

In other exhibitions, the St. Louis Cardinals won their eighth straight, beating the Cincinnati Reds 7-6 with a seven-run fourth-inning; the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Milwaukee Braves 7-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates outscored the Chicago White Sox 10-9; the Houston Colts zeroed the Los Angeles Angels 7-0 and the Chicago Cubs belted the Cleveland Indians 10-4.

Boyer Connects

Ken Boyer triggered the Cards' seven-run burst against Jim Maloney with a bases-empty homer and Minnie Minoso closed it out by homering with two on. St. Louis now is 11-4 for the spring and the National League champion Reds 4-1.

Pedro Gonzales, notified of his option to Richmond of the International League just before the game, won it for the Yankees against the Tigers with a 10th-inning triple after John Blanchard's single.

Two of the old-line Dodgers, Jim Gilliam and Duke Snider, collected six of the ten Los Angeles hits in the victory over Milwaukee.

The Pirates shaded the White Sox despite a powerful performance by Joe Cunningham, who smacked homers his first three times up, later added a single and knocked across five Chicago runs.

Bob Bruce and Jim Umbricht combined in a four-hit pitching job while Joey Amalfitano and Don Tausig supplied the long-range batting in Houston's shutout of the Angels. Amalfitano hit a grand slammer and Tausig whacked a bases-empty homer, both off Bob Belinsky in the second inning.

The Cubs rocked Cleveland pitching for 18 hits in their runaway decision. Nels Matthews put on the finishing touch for the Cubs with a two-run homer in the ninth inning against Frank Funk.

Wes Covington got into the homer parade, smacked three and batting in six runs as the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed their Buffalo International League farm club 13-1.

Paret's Son Won't Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Lucy Paret, wife of the critically injured welterweight boxer Benny Paret, said Monday, "I hate fighting."

Her son, Benny Jr., 2½, will never fight in the ring, she said harshly. "No, No, No! He likes fighting, as all kids do, but he will not make his living as a fighter."

Mrs. Paret was questioned by reporters at Roosevelt Hospital, where her husband was in critical condition. Mrs. Paret, despite her bitterness toward boxing, said she does not think it should be prohibited.

"No, I don't think it should be barred," she said. "There are a number of men who depend upon it for a living. They have kids to support."

"If my husband had not been hurt, he would have continued to fight. He knows no other business. And that's true of many of the fighters. They know no other thing and they've got kids to support."

Horse Trainer Headley Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Hal Price Headley, 73, thoroughbred horse owner-breeder, died suddenly Thursday while supervising training of his horses at Keeneland.

Headley bred winners of more than $9 million and raced horses which earned more than $3.5 million. He had nearly 100 stakes winners.

He suffered a heart attack last Dec. 12 and was in the hospital several weeks at Albany, Ga. He was released last month and returned here to get his horses ready for the Keeneland meet starting in two weeks.

In Discussion Stage Luzerne County May Merge To Get Last Race License

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two rival harness racing organizations reported Monday they have discussed the possibility of pooling their efforts to secure a track license in Luzerne County.

Attorneys for the Anthracite Raceway Association, Inc., and the Pocono Raceway, Inc., told newsmen jointly that the possibility of a merger "is just in the discussion stage."

The two organizations are seeking the one remaining license for legalized parimutuel betting that may be awarded by the state harness commission.

Attorneys Theodore R. Lupatka, Hazleton, counsel for Anthracite, and John J. Slumaker, Harrisburg, counsel for Pocono, said the matter was under discussion this morning, prior to an afternoon meeting of the commission.

The attorneys declined to comment on further plans for discussion of merger possibilities.

The two organizations have been deadlocked over issuance of the track license for more than a year. Two licenses have been awarded in the Philadelphia area and one in Washington County.

At the commission meeting the Anthracite group offered additional information for its license application. It proposed plant would be near the intersection of the Keystone Shortway and the Anthracite Expressway, about a mile north of Drums, Luzerne County.

At a meeting last summer questions were raised whether Fred R. Corrales, president of Anthracite Raceway, had ever associated with known underworld figures.

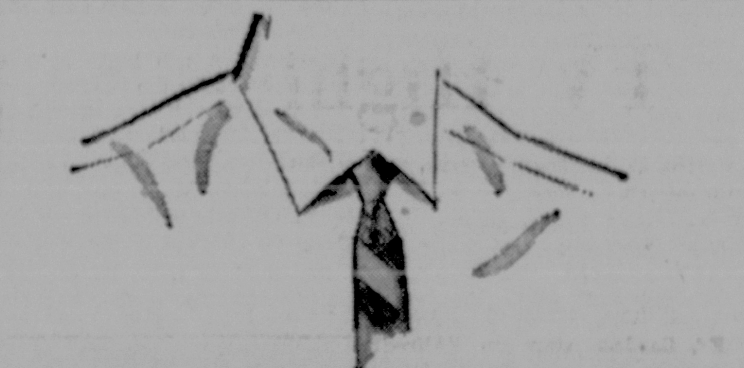

Commissioner Edward Rane said:

"There were a lot of vague charges made against you for participating with what are popularly called hoodlums."

Corrales replied under oath that "I've never associated with hoodlums."

The Pocono group presented no testimony Monday.

It's proposed track would be near the Wilkes-Barre Interchange of the northeast extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Dear Abby

The Proof!

DEAR ABBY: What do you mean Tarzan and Jane were NOT married. They most certainly were! For your information they were married on page 312 in THE RETURN OF TARZAN by Edgar Rice Burroughs. Professor Porter, Jane's father, was an ordained minister and he performed the ceremony.

DEAR LIBRARIAN: My thanks to you (and to the hundreds of other Tarzan fans) who informed me of my error. Many other librarians have written me that, since that letter appeared in my column, there has been a run on the Tarzan books.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column, from the wife who worried because her husband mentioned ladies' names in his sleep, reminded me of my own experience. We had been married only a few months. My husband was a receiving clerk on the docks. It was a busy time of year and his responsibilities were very burdensome. One night he was exceptionally restless. He tossed, turned, moaned and muttered. Suddenly I heard him say, "But Ruth is coming in tomorrow and I have to be ready for her!" My heart sank. I very quietly whispered in his ear, "Ruth who, Charley?" He replied, "Ruth Alexander, with all that grain." I went to sleep chuckling. The "Ruth Alexander" was a ship of the Pacific Steamship Company, then in service up and down the West Coast.

DEAR ABBY: I have the world's worst liar for a husband. He has been seeing another woman for a year now and, you know, you can't get away with that stuff in a small town. Everybody knows it, but he denies it when I question him. He "hides" his car in her garage and pulls down the garage door, but the crazy fool should know that people see him coming out of her garage at all hours. The woman is divorced and he isn't the only one she sees. Should I find myself a sweetheart, too? Maybe if my husband got a taste of his own medicine it would cure him.

DEAR WIFE: The kind of "medicine" you are considering has never cured anyone. Someone should collar your husband and try to make him see the light. It's a man's job. Get one of his friends to talk to him.

DEAR ABBY: Your Italian correspondent is wrong. NO ONE eats pizza with the "fin-gers." It is eaten with the mouth.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamp, self-addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, March 27, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Increased strong favorable Mars aspect boosts personal energy and putting carefully-thought-out ideas into action. Strike a healthy pace that can be kept.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Venus invigorating for you, as most other planets are for the more today. So open your eyes, mind and heart to all the many GOOD offerings about and welcome others' kindness.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Will be advisable to slacken up to be able to rebound for possible error of method or in details. Be your instantly strong self as a last, foolhardy venture.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Generally you should seek favors, extra benefits, unless you know that certain things mean it is not feasible now. But plan for days months ahead, with sturdy faith.

Monroe Cancer Drive Quota Of $8,200 Is Announced

THE goal of the American Cancer Society of Monroe County is $8,200 and the local drive will be conducted from April 1 to April 15. Richard Walter, Monroe County Crusade chairman, said last night.

Cancer strikes all people, from the noblest to the meanest, richest to poorest, and some of the most gifted are among its victims. Each year takes many prominent figures from the worlds of government, science, sports, the arts — frequently at the height of their careers.

If a general cure or preventive for cancer had been found in their time, some of the following most certainly would have lived longer to influence their respective fields and the history of our times.

Some of the recent cancer victims, especially eminent in their fields are: film great Gary Cooper and Broadway lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II.

Dr. Tom Dooley and Horace Rowan Galtier Jr., president of Ford Foundation, baseball great Ty Cobb and Robert Carl Zuppke, all-time great football coach.

Composer Percy Grainger and baritone John Charles Thomas, Henry Seidel Canby, founder of The Saturday Review, and Gastronomist Duncan Hines, Ballet impresario the Marquis de Cuevas and dance choreographer Doris Humphrey.

Also John Foster Dulles, U. S. Secretary of State, and Aneurin Bevan, British Labor Party leader.

Boris Pasternak, Nobel Prize novelist, and Francis A. Jamieson, Pulitzer Prize journalist.

Acress Kay Kendall and photographer Lisa Larson.

Walters said the seven danger signs of cancer are:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change of bowel or bladder habits.

5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

Second Class Badges were awarded to Gary Marvin and Jack Lesoine Jr.

James Klass was awarded a First Class Badge.

Merit Badges for various specialties, such as First Aid, Safety and Leather Work were also awarded to David Katz, James Klass and Gary Marvin.

Trout 300 will spend a week at Camp Weaght from July 1st to July 7th. Plans for this week of camping were discussed during the course of the evening, as well as a proposed formation of a Mother's Auxiliary.

The aim of the program, according to Forester McNamara, is to encourage the practice of forestry on privately owned, tax-paying timberlands.

The National Tree Farm program now has more than 57 million acres on over 22,000 tree farms. Monroe County now has a total of 25 tree farms which include 20,117 acres of well-managed woodland.

The program is sponsored in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Forest Industries Committee with the cooperation of the Department of Forests and Waters and the Pennsylvania Forestry Association.

Scout Troop 300 Holds Honor Court

MEMBERS of Troop 300, a company by parents and guests, participated in a Covered Dish Supper and Court of Honor held recently at the Arlington Heights School. (Note to Editor — Date of meeting was March 17, 1962).

Among the guests were District Executive William Vincent and Mrs. Vincent.

This affair was the best attended meeting ever held under the auspices of Troop 300. Eighty people, adults and children, were present.

Supper arrangements were made under the direction of Mrs. Walter Marvin and Mrs. Calvin E. Florey.

A highlight of the evening was a first aid demonstration given by the team which won third place honors in the recent Delaware Valley Meet. First aid skills were demonstrated by Gary Marvin, Charles Strunk, Paul Florey, Kenneth Bush, Frank Oyer, David Katz and James Klass. Jack Lesoine was the "victim" for this demonstration.

During the Court of Honor, the following boys were invested as Tenderfoot Scouts: Kenneth Bush, Gary Meekes, Gary Raymond, Paul Shaffer, Jr.

Second Class Badges were awarded to Gary Marvin and Jack Lesoine Jr.

James Klass was awarded a First Class Badge.

Merit Badges for various specialties, such as First Aid, Safety and Leather Work were also awarded to David Katz, James Klass and Gary Marvin.

Trout 300 will spend a week at Camp Weaght from July 1st to July 7th. Plans for this week of camping were discussed during the course of the evening, as well as a proposed formation of a Mother's Auxiliary.

The aim of the program, according to Forester McNamara, is to encourage the practice of forestry on privately owned, tax-paying timberlands.

The National Tree Farm program now has more than 57 million acres on over 22,000 tree farms. Monroe County now has a total of 25 tree farms which include 20,117 acres of well-managed woodland.

The program is sponsored in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Forest Industries Committee with the cooperation of the Department of Forests and Waters and the Pennsylvania Forestry Association.

Business Column

ALLSTATE tours, only two months old, already is bursting its seams, according to A.M. Hass, Regional Manager.

He said Allstate tours is increasing the size of its central vacation processing office in Chicago by four times over original plans in order to keep up with current request for travel information.

This response to the worldwide tours offered by Sears, Roebuck and Company through its 1962 spring and summer catalog and in retail and catalog sales stores, has far exceeded expectations, it was pointed out.

The individual and group Allstate tours are being marketed by Sears subsidiary, with the tours arranged and operated by American Express.

The Allstate tour facilities in Chicago handle all arrangements for vacations ordered through the Sears catalog or stores and also provide by mail any additional information prospective travelers may request before making a tour selection.

The expanded offices will be in American Express Offices at 20 South Michigan Avenue, where the present facilities are located.

The building will house a discount department store offering virtually every commodity used in the home today, including a full line of clothing and apparel, and will be of a colonial type design and architecture. It is anticipated that the new unit will be open for business by September 1962.

This is the second of this type store to be operated by Food Basket, which at present, in addition to super markets, operates a 90,000 square foot discount department store on Route 115, just outside of Easton, Pennsylvania.

Arnold J. Falk, Vice-President in Charge of Store Operations, said that this new unit would incorporate the latest concepts in self-service department store merchandising, not yet seen in this part of the country.

Mr. Falk also announced at this time that his firm had signed a lease for a 20,000 square foot food market to be located in the Charles & Company discount department store on U.S. Route 22, at the Airport exit road in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. This unit is scheduled to open in the summer of 1962.

Mr. Oscar Falk added that a lease has been signed with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to build a service station center at the Food Basket, Easton, Pennsylvania location as part of a long range development program for that unit.

ALLAN Schoener, formerly of Schuylkill County, has been named assistant Monroe County agent of the Agricultural Extension Service of Penn State University.

Shoener will work with A. E. Ifft, county agent, in directing 4-H club work in Monroe. He is a graduate of the college of agriculture at Penn State University, where he specialized in animal husbandry.
